Q: I have a lot of landscaping with mulch, do I have to replenish my mulch beds every year and when is the best time to do that? Also are there any other benefits besides the fresh look? Debbie Greene, Bloomington

A: I always suggest mulching every spring after an initial spring cleanup, hopefully before the perennials pop up. Mulching yearly doesn't require as thick of dressing and allows you to clean up the landscape edge and bed. Mulch has many benefits besides dressing up your landscaping. Your plants will thank you as it conserves soil moisture, protects from drying roots, and prevents shock from cold and hot days. Mulch also is a natural weed blanket, stopping weeds from germinating. For a healthy, beautiful landscape you'll want to continue mulching.

Q: I love spring, especially the first signs of flowers blooming, where and when can I plant those and what are they called? Jean Kolb, Bloomington

A: You must be talking about bulbs. Bulbs are great for filling in between shrubs or perennials. You want to plant bulbs that are going to bloom at different times than your shrubs and perennials. Unfortunately, spring flowering bulbs need to be planted in the fall. I would make a list this spring of the bulbs you like and plant them this fall, some of my favorites are daffodils, hyacinth, and tulips.

Q: I wanted to get my lawn aerated but I didn't know when was the best time and I didn't know if I should over seed after? Wes Becker, Shirley

A: Aerating can be done in the spring or fall, but fall is usually the best because temperature and rain are more ideal for the seed. If you want aerate this spring - and I have a lot of customers that do both - do it as early as you can and always over-seed. Remember, if you apply a pre-emergent weed control, don't apply over seeded areas as the seed will not germinate. I always put straw over any real bad areas to hold in moisture and remind everyone to stay off.

CHRIS' THOUGHTS

The snow filled winter has surely produced a longing for green grass, leaves, plants and spring blooms. I have always found it interesting how those who enjoy living in a four seasons climate always look forward to the next season. That holds true for me as well, as I am really excited for spring! My biggest desire this year is to serve each and every customer to the very best of our ability and to ensure you are happy with the service we are providing for you. We look forward to seeing you (and springtime) soon!
